"We Need Men For Our Local Unit," Says Capt. Rodriguez, Discussing National Guard Day, September 16

National Guard Day is Thursday, September 16, marking the eighth anniversary of the Guard's entry into Federal Service. Ending the second year of reorganization since the war, a recruiting drive is planned during September, October, and November, designed to raise present forces of 317,000 men to a ceiling of 341,000 for this year.

"There will probably be no special events on the Peninsula for National Guard Day," Captain James Rodriguez, organizer of the local unit, told The Pine Cone this week. "We're busy right now with preparations for our participation in the Monterey County Fair; besides, a General Army inspection is coming up soon. Next year, when the new armory on the Fairgrounds is finished, we'll have a real shindig."

"California's quota was reached and passed some time ago," he explained. "The state is overenlisted 2500 men now, due mostly to the draft threat, and enlistments have been frozen for the time being. We will need men for the local unit, however, as soon as enlistments are opened again. The required strength for the Peninsula is 90 men and five officers; at present we have 53 officers and men—five from Carmel and the rest from Monterey."

"We're encouraging veterans to apply for enlistment now," Rodriguez added. "We particularly need their help as instructors. Applicants should see Lt. Clifford Ferris at the Monterey P. G. and E., call the Armory, Monterey 8511, or get in touch with me at the Monterey Police station."

Members of the Guard are paid by the Army quarterly, at the rate of one day's regular army pay for each two-hour drill. Enlistment period is three years. Company A, Monterey Peninsula's medium tank company, meets each Tuesday night at the Presidio Armory, with the exception of the two weeks at the State Training Camp at San Luis Obispo.

"Summer training camp is no boy-scout outing," Captain Rod-

Monterey, California.

Editor of The Pine Cone:

Now is definitely the time for all good music-lovers to come to the aid of their symphony. Dr. Walter Lehmann, membership chairman for the Monterey County Symphony Association has announced that during the past week letters have been mailed to persons who, although supporting the orchestra through attendance at concerts during its first two years of existence, have not as yet joined the Association. Prospective members are asked to subscribe to this important non-profit, community project by assuming membership in one of the following classes: Life Membership, $100 or more; Sustaining Patron, $25 or more; Active Membership, $10 or more; Associate Membership, $2 or more.

Any person desiring to join the Association, whether solicited by letter or not, may do so by mailing a check to the treasurer, Fritz Wurzmann, at Box 1856, Carmel. Dr. Lehmann has been assisted in the mechanics of the membership drive by the following committee: Mrs. Grace Howden, Mrs. Gunnar Norberg, Mrs. Eben Whittlesey, Mrs. Charles Simpson, Franklin Dixon, Noel Sullivan, and Mrs. George Taylor, membership chairman in Salinas.

Meanwhile, as plans for the first

AUTUMN WALKS HERE

The small uneasy winds disturb the garden—
There is a haze of leaf-fires in the air.
Across the sun-lit silence lies a shadow
That through the blaze of summer was not there.

Unquiet moves the bough across the asters—
Uncertain lies the leaf-print on the ground—
The roses float their lightly-shaken petals
Upon the sloping air without a sound.

What is withdrawn? All is the same as always—
Trees and the blue of space en-wall the sight—
The tall bright lilies sing — there is no difference
Save for a shift of centre in the light.

Alma Trio Series Opens Monday With All Beethoven Concert

In the Bach Festival, Carmel audiences have had the experience of listening to the music of one composer for an entire evening and have found it completely rewarding. It is consequently good news that at two of the forthcoming concerts the Alma Trio will give us the opportunity of hearing only Beethoven when they play on September 13, and only Brahms on September 20. This happy selection brings the ensemble, through a continuation of the three "B's," into the exalted orbit of Johannes Sebastian.

In the building of programs over the years we have been accustomed to variety (which is by no means to be decried) but those who have the privilege of exposure to the works of one master for a couple of hours, uninterruptedly, invariably report an enrichment of experience which is less likely to be achieved in the inevitable adjustment to a change of idiom.

The trios and sonatas that will be performed next Monday were all written in Beethoven's middle period, when his technique was becoming more adequate to communicate, in musical form, the world-shaking message that his creative genius dictated. Physical deafness had not as yet completely excluded from his grasp the universe in which he lived. For him, if we dare to say it of so tragic a figure, this was the summer day which preceded the "season of mists and mellow fruitfulness."

The complete program for the Beethoven evening, September 13, will be: Trio in D Major, Op. 70, No. 1 (Ghost); Sonata in A Major, Op. 47 for Violin and Piano (Kreutzer); Sonata in A Major, Op. 69 for Cello and Piano; Trio in E Flat Major, Op. 70 No. 2.

On Sunday, Sept. 20, the following works of Brahms will be heard: Trio in C Minor, Op. 101; Sonata in F Major, Op. 99 for Cello and Piano; Sonata in A Major, Op. 100 for Violin and Piano; Trio in B Major, Op. 8.

The final concert of Messrs. Baller, Totenberg and Rejto will consist exclusively of trios. This will take place on September 27 when the following will be heard: Trio in G Major, by Haydn; Trio in A Minor, by Ravel; Trio in B Flat Major, Op. 99, by Schubert.

Council Proposes Benefit Show For Forest Theatre

Decaying props and fixtures on the Forest Theater stage may be restored through a benefit performance, the Carmel City Council said Wednesday night. Tacked together 10 years ago by more patient than efficient WPA workers, the stage furnishings were the center of a small tempest recently when they fell apart in the hands of producer Bert Heron.

"The little houses on the stage are in particularly poor shape," Councilman Craig told the council. "When the council was called to inspect the things after Heron's mishap, we all felt that they were in a dangerous condition. Mr. Heron rightly maintained that they were rotten, and that any damage done by his men was not due to carelessness."

"It would be a waste of time merely to repair the damage," Mayor Fred Godwin observed. "The present props are decaying rapidly, and are cumbersome and unattractive. If we're going to put it back in shape, we should install a few improvements such as curtains and readily movable stage equipment. If the city should give a benefit play next year, I'm sure that every one in the community would be behind it."

Councilman Allen Knight pointed out that Carmel has given such benefit performances in the past. "It's a perfectly feasible plan," he said. "We have realized as high as $2,000 on some of these affairs."

A group of representative lessors of the theater, including local producers and leaders of civic groups, will be asked to confer and make recommendations for refurbishing to the council. Discussed as an added possibility was local businessman Paul McKinstry's suggestion that garden shrubs be planted on the grounds

Adult School Announces New Courses

Dr. E. O. Sisson, educator, Arthur Holman, photographer, and Ed Kincaid, high school art instructor, will head new courses for the Carmel Adult School to open at Sunset School September 13, Principal Charles Dawson announced this week.

Opening lecture in Dr. Sisson's series of five talks on Education is to be given Wednesday, October 6. Arthur Holman, for many years an amateur and professional photographer on the Peninsula, will conduct a photography workshop specializing in darkroom work. The new course in crafts, conducted by Kincaid, will emphasize leathercraft and block printing. Since he has just completed special studies in arts and crafts, he will present many new ideas in his classes, according to Dawson.

Local artists and craftsmen who will again conduct classes this year are: Nancy Johnson, color and design workshop; Lee Randolph, sketching, painting, and life drawing; Henrietta Shore, creative art; Kay Rodgers, charcoal portraiture; Howell Armor, woodcarving; Ernest Calley, pottery; Leota Tucker, photography appreciation; Lee Crowe, drama; Glenn Clairmonte, short story writing and current literature; Rosa Goforth, advanced conversational Spanish; Lorell McCann and Clifford Anderson, symphony orchestra; John Farr, men's chorus; Orville Rogers, volleyball; George Mosolf, badminton; John Westover, men's physical education; Marjorie Hitchings, beginning and advanced folk dancing; and Howard Byrne, machine woodworking.

Added courses in citizenship, navigation, and sewing will be arranged if enough people are interested. At least 15 students are required to open a class. Subjects are offered by popular demand, and those interested in a subject not listed here should get in touch with the Adult School office.

Students will register at the first class meeting. Schedules will be available at the Adult School office at Sunset School, or will be mailed on request. There is no registration fee.

Leffingwell Gets $1.00 Per Pound For Mountain Lion

Eric Leffingwell, who graduated from Carmel High School in 1946 and is now a forest service patrolman, killed a mountain lion Sunday near Big Pines on his regular patrol of the Black Rock District. The cat was "medium big, about 100 pounds."

Leffingwell reported his catch to Lloyd Lemon, who was at his cabin at the White Rock Club. "He was about four hours late on his way back to Base Camp at Palo Colorado, it had been such a job getting the cat out of the canyon and loaded on his horse," Lemon told The Pine Cone. The following day Leffingwell collected his bounty, $50 from the county and $50 from the state.

Lemon, a friend of champion lion hunter Jay Bruce, quotes the latter to the effect that there are 300 to 400 lions killed in the state each year, which he believes equal to the yearly increase, so that the population remains about constant. Since the cats remain in inaccessible areas, the species is not likely to be exterminated, Bruce believes.

GOOD BUT NOT FIRST

There has been comment in other Peninsula papers for the past several weeks on "Carmel's first grand opera." This, we are pleased to announce, is an inaccuracy.

On the walls of The Pine Cone composing room are tacked up posters printed at various times down through the years by the Pine Cone Job Department. Among them is a standard size window card announcing the advent of the Twentieth Century Opera Company to Sunset Auditorium, where it would present on successive evenings, Thais, Lucia, and Aida.

Carol Card, in her search through The Pine Cone files has not only found information on the Twentieth Century Company, but reports an even earlier performance of Faust here, and the controversy that developed over whether or not it was good enough for Carmel. Her account appears on the Feature Page of this issue.

Albacore Boat Goes Ashore Off Cypress Point

Two persons swam to safety early Thursday morning when the San Francisco albacore boat Mary Lois ran on the rocks off Cypress Point. Coast Guard crews, alerted at 5:00 a. m., battled a rising tide for more than 12 hours in an attempt to save the badly-damaged craft. Her bottom smashed, the Mary Lois was estimated to be a total loss.

After a two-hour attempt to maneuver the boat into deep water, the two survivors, whose names could not be learned yesterday, donned life preservers and swam to shore. Out of San Francisco since early this week, the Mary Lois ran aground in the fog after leaving Monterey for albacore Wednesday.

56 GRIDDERS SIGN UP AT CARMEL HIGH SCHOOL

Enough football talent for five teams answered the call of coaches Don Craig, Chuck Dawson, Jack Mermod, and George Mosolf when the pigskin regalia was dished out last Monday afternoon. A fine nucleus of 25 lettermen assured the Red and Gray of enough experienced hands to adequately man the intricate maneuvers of the T formation. Included in the 56 aspirants were some welcome transfers from other high schools. Leading the transfer brigade was Jack Belangee, a fullback from Santa Maria High School, who tips the beams at 185 pounds and shows enough swift to run the flanks as well as crack through the middle. Ted Nash, Delfo Giglio, Ron Peterson, Ian Mackean, Howard Veit, and John Gibbs are the other transfers making a bid for positions on the limited squad. Up from the Serra school are Henry Overin, Bob Updike, and Lannie Doolittle. Henry and Bob are already experienced backfield performers, while Lannie has all the qualifications for a first class end. Stewart Emery, Kurt von Meier, and Brent Millen are eighth grade graduates who will be trying football for the first time.

Four All-League selections will be back for another go at conference opponents. Dick Gargiulo and Tommy Handley were chosen as the top halfbacks in the B division of the CCAL last season and will attempt to prove their selection was justified. Dick Weer and Art Harber, two rough and ready linemen, were picked tops at the center and end positions. Dan Holmes, last season's kicking sensation, will again handle the punting chores and attempt to reach his 47 yard average of last year. Dan is one of the best kickers in the CCAL and should develop into a fine flankman before the season is over.

With the opening of the season only two weeks away, the Padres will have to get in some lengthy practice sessions to catch up with the schools who started practice a week before school opened. Fortunately, experienced quarterbacks from last year's lightweight squad are on hand to help out the rookies. Jim Hare and Steve Whitaker handled the reins for the limiteds last season, and, with the help of Henry Overin, will guide the varsity from the QB spot this year. Jim and Henry are sharpshooting forward passers, while Steve is a smooth ball-handler. Stewart Emery and Bob Updike give the limiteds two exceptional prospects in the quarterbacking department. Both boys are fine passers and are developing into poised workmen.

1948 candidates for the varsity squad are: Ends: Lee Laugenour, Dan Holmes, Dick Weer, and Pete Berg. Tackles: Dick Sumner, Pierre Boutet, Harry Watson, Elton Clark, and Les Bracisco. Guards: Frank Richey, Howard DeAmaral, Dick Taplin, Bernie Adams and Tom Corley. Centers: Art Harber and Neils Reimers. Quarterbacks: Henry Overin, Jim Hare, and Steve Whitaker. Halfbacks: Tom Handley, Jim Moran, Walt Frey, and Dick Gargiulo. Fullbacks: Floyd Adams and Jack Belangee.

Lightweight ends are: John Gibbs, Joe Diekemper, Lannie Doolittle, Bill Varien, and Ed Goodrich. Tackles: Mickey Frisbee, Charles May, Thor Rasmussen, Gunnar Reimers, and Ted Nash. Guards: Bill Daniels, Chris Williams, Howard Veit, and Delfo Giglio. Centers: John Monroe, Jim Harget, and Joe Beard. Quarterbacks: Bob Updike and Stewart Emery. Halfbacks: Henry Overin, Keith Mackenzie, Kurt von Meier, Legare McNeill, Ronald Stoney, and Brent Millen. Fullbacks: Ian Mackean, Jim Thompson, Sylvester Burger, and Ron Peterson.

Football enthusiasm is high at Carmel High School, and, win or lose, the kids are going to have a lot of fun during the coming season.

BADMINTON CLASSES AT H.S. GYM ON TUES. AND THURS.

The Adult School badminton classes which proved so popular during the past vacation period will take up again next Tuesday and will be held on each Tuesday and Thursday from 7:30 to 10 p. m. George Mosolf, Carmel High School coach, will supervise the badminton classes and will lend a hand to teach beginners the rudiments of the game, as well as arrange matches for the experts. Both men and women take part in these badminton sessions and all grades of competition are available. Rackets are furnished by the Adult School and birds may be purchased from the instructor. Participants are asked to wear gymnasium shoes which do not mark the floor. Showers and towels are available after the workouts.

To the Editor,
The Carmel Pine Cone-Cymbal,
Dear Mrs. Cook,

I know that Red Eagle's many other friends will be as relieved as I was to read Mr. Upton's interview with Mrs. Moran in last week's issue of The Pine Cone, and her statement that the book published over her name "is really Red Eagle's book, not mine."

For this must surely mean that the real author will receive the customary third of whatever royalties the book earns; owing to some mischance Red Eagle, I understand, has been under a different impression. His friends will be happy if you can assure them he is to gain financially from the sales of his book.

Yours truly,
R. Ellis Roberts.

Hollow Hills Farm,
Jamesburg Route,
Monterey, Calif.
September 2, 1948.

Dear Sir:

I am wondering if residents of this community are fully aware of the inflexible restrictions now enforced in regard to visiting Point Lobos. The incomparable magnificence of that scene, now that the site has been acquired with taxpayers' money as a state park, is regarded very much as are the painted panoramas of the Grand Canyon or the Battle of Gettysburg, which at "world's fairs" could be seen by paying twenty-five cents.

Sunday, August 29, was, as everyone may remember, a beautiful fogless day. A visitor from Europe was my guest, and late in the afternoon I drove to the coast, hopingto show him Point Lobos. Though it was almost six o'clock and the sign clearly indicated restricted visiting hours, one gate was still open, and there being no one in charge, we started for the Allan Memorial Grove. Half way there the ranger, Mr. C. W. Ray, stopped me, refused to accept the toll and told me to turn around and leave the premises at once.

Finding that there was still a parked car, I assume that a hurried glimpse of the rocks and cypresses would be permissible. On our return to the car ten minutes later, we were met by Mr. Ray, whose resentment of my infraction of the rules governing visiting hours was completely unfounded. I was served with a document similar to what a traffic officer gives to a driver who has been stopped for speeding. It turned out to be nothing but a "warning," but Mr. Ray's manner left my guest under the impression that I was facing at least a fine or perhaps a prison sentence!

What made the experience disagreeable and unforgettably unpleasant to me was the fact that this friend, originally a refugee from the Bolshevist revolution in Russia, had spent the war years under the Nazi occupation in Paris and had come these many thousand miles to be subjected to treatment not too dissimilar to what one encounters in a "police state."

It seems to me obvious that in midsummer on a holiday, hours before sunset, there should be some flexibility regarding access to Point Lobos, or, if that is impossible, at least good manners in the refusal of it. Everyone given the right to represent authority should be warned against regimentation that even remotely resembles the sort of thing that is found in the totalitarian states.

Yours very truly,
Noel Sullivan.

New Art Quartet, Erich Korngold For First MAC Concert

At a directors' meeting of the Musical Art Club held in the home of Mrs. A. C. Crofton in Carmel Tuesday evening, plans were announced for the first concert to be given by the club after the summer holidays. The New Art Quartet, a group from Southern California, under the direction of William Vandenburg, will be presented in the Golden Bough Theater on Sunday afternoon, September 26. With the quartet will appear Erich Korngold, composer-pianist.

The concert, which is planned to be one of the outstanding presentations by the club for the current year, will coincide with the opening of the annual membership drive.

Because of the growth of the club and limitations of space at concerts, a new ruling with reference to guests of members at club functions was formulated by the directors. Henceforth, only two nontransferable guest tickets, good for one concert only, will be issued to members requesting them. Application must be made in advance of any concert to the club president, Reu Manhire, or the corresponding secretary, Miss Elizabeth Crofton, who will issue a guest card bearing the name of the guest and the date of the concert.

Other business of the directors' meeting included the appointment of a nominating committee to select officers and directors for the next calendar year. The meeting was followed by a social hour, when refreshments were served by Mrs. Crofton.

HI CHATTER

By Nancy Page

CHS students got back into the swing of things gradually last Tuesday morning after the first student body meeting of the year to welcome everybody back and assign home-rooms. Lots of new faces appeared in the upper grades, as well as a brand new eight grade class, with students hailing from all parts of the world.

Those other than eighth graders who are new to the high school include Darryl Alkire, Sacramento; Carroll Reid, Dominican School; Nancy Veit, Germany; Bob Laugenour, Serra School; Joan Kemper, Fresno; Sam Robinson, Serra School; Eugene McFarland, Serra School; David Claghorn, Houston, Texas; Jane Trappe, Robles del Rio; Mary Call, Robles del Rio; Kenneth Kiley, Korea; Oma de Forte, Oklahoma City; John Gibbs, Montezuma; Susan Stoney, Carmel Valley; Diane Horne, Serra School; Mary Marquis, Oakland; Erna Barnett, New York; James Thompson, Michigan; David Smith, Carmel Valley; Cynthia Coe, Carmel Valley; Nancy McGill, San Fancisco; Jackie Mills, Washington, D. C.; Johanna Kistler (returned); Faye La Mar (returned); David Gaudio, Carmel Valley; Bruce Robison, Carmel Valley; John O'Shea, Clovis; Kim Kollins (returned); Brent Millen (returned); Cherre Addenin, San Rafael; Dorothy Kidwell, Pacific Grove; Constance Melchoir, Korea (returned); Howard Veit, Germany (returned); Ray Schlange, Las Vegas; Weston Frost, Connecticut; David Stuart, La Jolla; Delfo Giglio, Loyola, Los Angeles; Jack Belangee, Santa Monica; Kathleen Whittaker, Serra School; Patricia Krieger, Serra School; Jo-Evelyn Albie, Douglas School; Bill Albie, Cambria; Herbert Richit, Honolulu; John Riebe, Berkeley; Ted Nash, Massachusetts; Ian MacKean, Canada; Donald Canham, Serra School; Robert Updike, Serra School; Carol Bolmen, Oakland; Lanny Doolittle, Serra School; Sali Dalton, Dominican School; Ted Weston, Los Angeles; Henry Overin, Serra School; Jacque Alkire, Sacramento; Ronald Peterson.

The faculty also has some new additions to offset the loss of two of its members. Mrs. Marie Fenner, who will take over the girls' physical education department, replaces Miss Faith Conklin, who is on leave of absence. Edward Kincaid, Jr., who was here at the end of last year, is stepping in as art teacher in place of Richard Hagadorn, on leave. I. A. Belangee, trade co-ordinator, is to have charge of a new program of occupational training.

Among the many other new things, a course in driver education is being inaugurated this year for juniors and seniors at CHS. Consisting of a semester's study of just about everything short of actual driving, the course will be taught by Howard Byrne. It is designed to make high school students more safety conscious, with studies of accident histories, project work, displays, various testing devices, etc., to be included. All juniors and seniors will have a chance to take the class before the year is over, and it is hoped that Carmel High School students will be better-than-average drivers as a result.

The first event on this year's social calendar is a "Who Dat" dance, tonight from 8:00 to 11:00 in the cafeteria, to welcome all new students and teachers, and provide an evening of fun and entertainment for everyone. Since it's a stag affair and absolutely free to all students, a large attendance should be expected. Margot Campbell, social commissioner, has promised music, entertainment, and refreshments for all.

"We Need Men For Our Local Unit," Says Captain Rodriguez

riguez pointed out. "National Guard units from all over the state, including two Infantry divisions, two AAA (anti-aircraft) brigades, a tank battalion, and two air wings, meet for extensive maneuvers and field practice."

The National Guard has a long and distinguished history. Its tradition of citizen-soldiers, serving their homeland in times of emergency, goes back to 1636 in Massachusetts, when the Old North Regiment was formed from several train bands. In war, the Guard has fought in major battles from Lexington to Manila. In peace, it has fought fire and flood, bringing relief to thousands of disaster victims.

At this critical period in history, the National Guard is reorganizing a new force for national defense. Its ultimate strength is set at 684,000 men in 27 divisions, 12 air wings, 21 regimental combat teams, and supporting troups. This M-Day force will be trained and equipped for immediate action in any national emergency.

In two years of reorganization, the Guard has already grown to a strength of 317,000, with a ceiling for this fiscal year set at 341,000. This ceiling is expected to be raised by more than 200,000 during the next year.

In addition to Captain Rodriguez, who is Sergeant of Police in Monterey, officers of the local unit are Second Lieutenant Malcolm Butler of Carmel, and Lieutenants John E. Harper and Clifford Ferris of Monterey.

Carmel men active in the Peninsula unit are Orval Mead, Clive Rayne, Eric H. Leffingwell, John M. Sully, and John S. Chitwood.

Paul Mays To Have Show In Chicago

Carmel artist Paul Mays will be represented by 24 pictures at the Evanston Gallery, Chicago, next week. Studies for the bird and animal portraits were made several years ago at the Wrigley estate on Catalina Island.

Later in November he will have a showing of paintings and mural designs in Toledo, Ohio. Meanwhile the artist is completing work on an altar piece commission at the Unitarian Church in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, to be unveiled in December.

Showings represent 18 months of work in the veteran Carmel painter's studio.

A RARE COLLECTION of Hobé JEWELS

The Golden Age . . . to an artist or art connoisseur it means Rubens, Rembrandt . . . to a historian it means Plato. Aristole . . . to collector of fine violins it means Stradivari . . . to a designer of jewelry it means creations of legendary splendor . . . exquisite hand work in precious metals and flashing jewels of affluent periods when personal adornment by way of jewelry creations achieved finest artistry. Many of the famous jewelry designs of historical importance have found their way into museums or the satin-lined displays of individual collectors. But these jewels and mountings of legendary splendor have their counterparts today—in the exquisite Hobe antiques. These are recreated from rare historic jewels never to be replaced.

Hand-fashioned mountings, lavishly studded with semi-precious stones in entrancing color combinations . . . the flash of fire, the mystery of changeable opals, the blue depths of the deepest seas, sunlight through a wave-crest, the golden surface of tropic seas, the twinkle of clear-star skies, amethyst twilight shadows . . all are reflected in the semi-precious jewels Hobe uses with paramount artistry in color and effect.

As a professor of mediaeval art at Sorbonne University, Hobe found a hobby interest in period jewelry design. He became a famous collector of antique jewelry. As a connoisseur, he turned from teaching to designing and recreating jewelry effects in the baroque manner, period designs that were breathtaking in beauty and authentic in design.

Recognition of his art brought him to America. He has become world renowned as a designer and fashioner of jewels. Those who appreciate finer creations recognize the Hobe presentations as the largest and most diversified display of its kind to be seen anywhere in the world.

In addition to the Hobe antiques, presenting historic jewels of exclusive importance there are recreations utilizing semi-precious stones, also Hobe gold-filled jewels, in Victorian and Empress Eugenie designs.

Hobe Chatelaine watches, in the French Renaissance mode, are in beautiful cloissone, or studded with multi-colored jewels. Hobe sterling silver creations assure the possessor of true individuality . . . no two pieces are designed alike. Charm bracelets that are prized for originality are the Hobe antique designs, plain or jeweled. They have that desirable massive effect but are light in weight. Re-created or re-assembled, from originals secured in foreign locales, remote and distant, these antique charm bracelets are truly unique. All Hobe's jewelry creations are hand-made.

Carmel has the distinction of presenting the famous creations of this master designer at . . .

The Time Has Come . .

By Kippy Stuart

Have you ever spent an afternoon calling on trees? I have a regular round of these calls I make ever so often and some of these trees are now old friends. It is impossible to say this tree is lovelier than that tree, but just the same I do have my favorites and I am much obliged to friends who have planted these favorites.

Long before I came to know my good friends who live on Shafter Way, Hatton Field, they did me the personal favor of planting two Incense Cedar trees. These trees went into the ground about ten years ago, just little fellows, and lo, today they are twin giants, bringing to this beautiful garden a dignity and quiet power that one feels the moment one enters. When I am caught creeping into my friend's garden she calls out to me, "Are you calling on me, or are you calling on the Incense Cedars?" If I have a vague, far-away look in my eyes, my friend knows the answer without words from me and I am left alone to stand at the feet of two of the most inspiring growing things I have ever seen. These two Incense Cedars, properly named Libocedrus, rise straight to the sky, as though the welkin were their objectives. Their awe-inspiring pyramidal shape never varies. The foliage, that is sweet-scented and lacy, lies about the base of each tree like the delicate skirt of a ballet dancer, rising in perfect pyramidal form . . . up . . . up . . . to the newest, tallest spire. Neither of these Incense Cedar trees has ever made a mistake; never once have they varied their perfect form. (I am dying to quote "You know who only can make a tree," but I won't.)

Mrs. G. A. Moller, who lives on Hatton Road just north of Ocean Avenue, did me another personal favor by planting a Silk Oak. What a tree that turned out to be! I call on this Silk Oak, just as I call on the Tolfree Cedars, and Mrs. Moller is equally gracious in allowing me to stand and worship. The Silk Oak, that looks and acts like a giant fern, has all the grace and delicacy of a fern. This tree showers down great fronds of vivid green foliage, and this foliage is so neatly arranged that it gives the impression of having been arranged by some great artist. One may take no liberties with the Incense Cedar. One may take liberties with the Silk Oak. One may prune the Silk Oak to suit one's taste. It may be allowed to grow as Mrs. Moller's grows; a waving, solid mass of living green, the foliage starting from the ground and mounting in triumph to the very pinnacle. Or, the Silk Oak may be shaped into a shade tree, with clean bole and umbrella-like spread.

What an inspiration it is to stand beside a Silk Oak and ask it questions. (Oh, yes, I talk to trees.) "Where do you come from? Are you happy here?" This particular Silk Oak replied, "Oh, I came originally from Australia and my real name is Grevillea Robusta, but you can call me plain Silk Oak. Oh, Australia is okey, I guess, but I like California very much. Why don't more of you gardeners plant me? I'm a very good tree and will do my best."

I pass on to you the Silk Oak's question. Why don't we plant more of this lovely tree? And another thing. Why give new babies silver and trinkets? Why not give a new-born baby a tree? Let the child grow up with his own tree.

Local IPP Headed For Salinas To Hear Taylor

A cavalcade of Carmel residents will drive to Salinas tomorrow night to hear Senator Glen Taylor, Progressive Party nominee for vice-president, speak with local candidates at a public meeting in the Big Barn, off Alisal Road, at 8 p. m., according to Agnes Shand, county chairman of the IPP.

Cole Weston of Carmel, candidate for Congress against E. K. Bramblett, and Dr. E. C. Cunningham, who is opposing Fred Weybret for State Senator from this district, will join Taylor at an afternoon meeting in Watsonville, where he is speaking on behalf of his brother, Paul Taylor, running for Congress in the eighth district.

Senator Taylor, whose acceptance speech at the national convention was broadcast from Shibe Park, has led the fight against discrimination at home and political restrictions on aid sent abroad, advancing his own plan for reconstruction through the UN in the Senate.

Taylor introduced the resolution to bar Senator Theodore Bilbo from the Senate, demanded a congressional investigation of voting conditions in Mississippi, and fought for invocation of cloture to permit debate of a bill to outlaw the poll tax.

In 1947, Taylor rode across the country on horseback to sound the alarm against the Truman Doctrine and the bi-partisan foreign policy, supported reciprocal trade agreements and partition of Palestine as proposed by the UN, and introduced a Senate resolution in favor of world government.

He introduced his own bills to restore price and rent controls, to repeal the Taft-Hartley law, to provide credit for small business and low rent housing for veterans, to investigate the real estate lobby and outside income of senators.

Tickets are on sale through IPP members for the meeting, also sponsored by the AFL for Wallace, Amigos de Wallace and the Young Progressives of America. Young Progressives from the Peninsula chapter will act as ushers at the meeting.

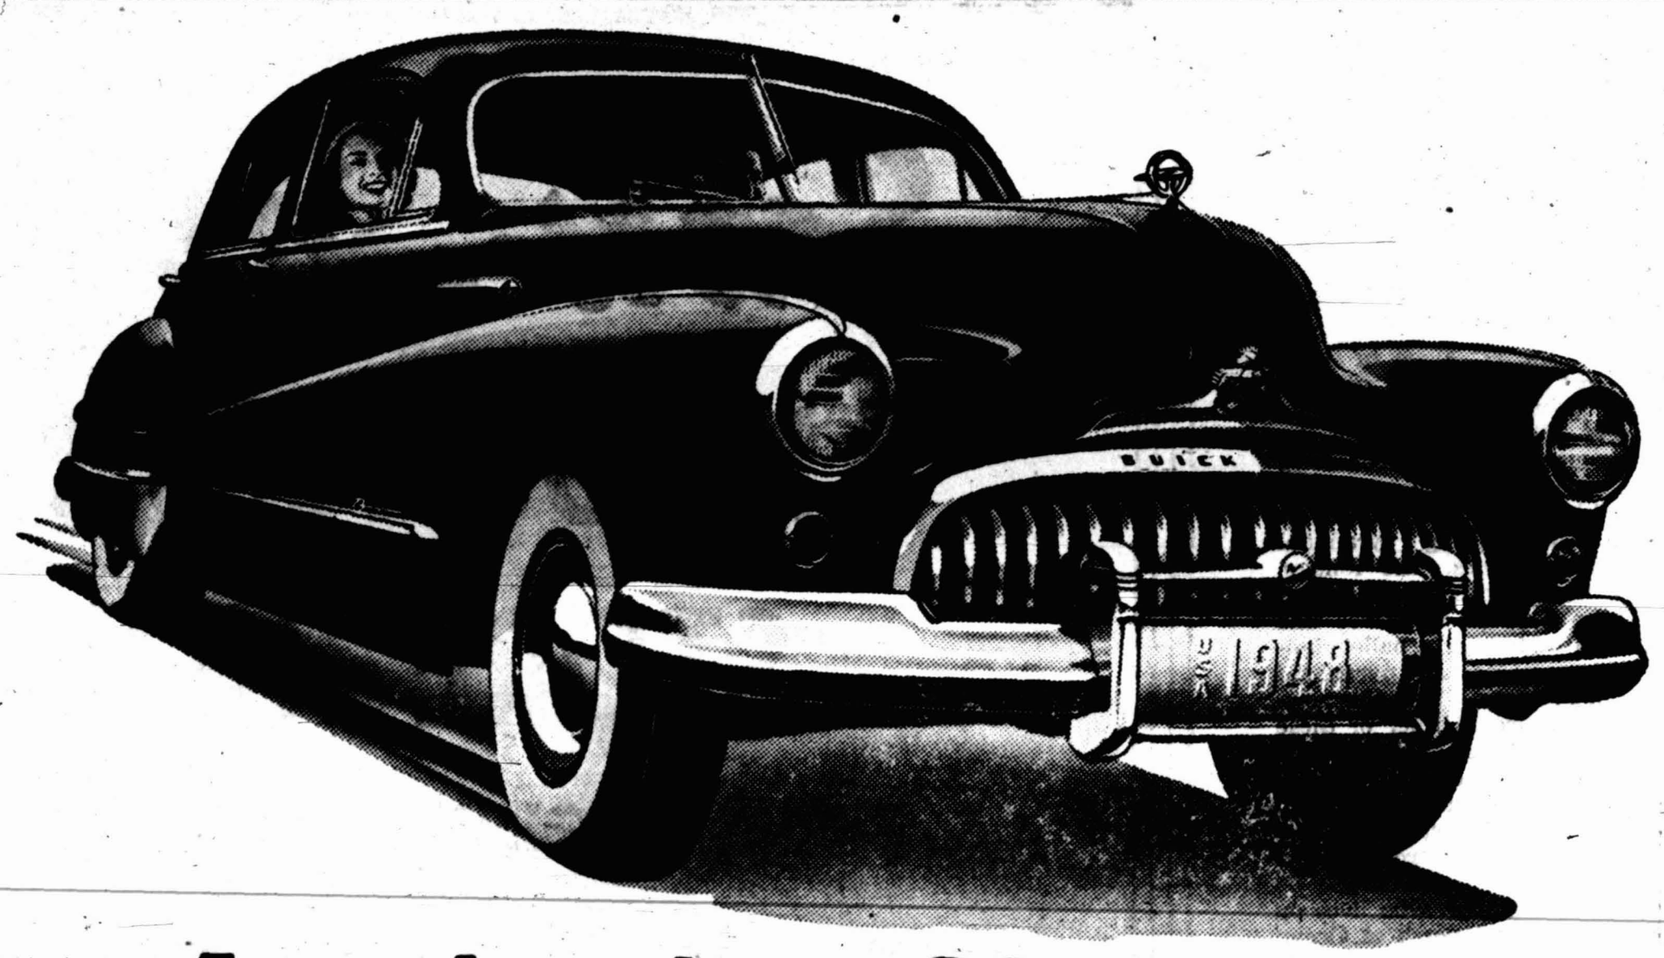
The Taylor meeting will be followed on Sunday by an all-day political action school sponsored by the state IPP to discuss the issues in the 1948 election, the position and progress of the new party, and the forces now operating in the political scene today. The sessions, from 10 to 12 in the morning and 1 to 4:30 in the afternoon at the Aurora Hall, New Monterey, are open to the public at a cost of $1.

Both meetings will point up the need for mass registration in California before registration closes September 23. Carmel registrars of voters are stationed at Gledhill Radio, Stalling's Stamp Shop, Staniford's Drug Store, Robert Leidig on Dolores and Sam Colburn in Carmel Woods. Registrars also taking new registrations or changes are the Carmel Valley Realty Co., Mrs. Frances Payne, Robles del Rio; Mrs. Electa Grimes on the Coast Road, and Mrs. Irene Post at Big Sur.

VISITS HERE

Mrs. Bessie Louise Bane, widow of Colonel Thurman H. Bane, who had lived in Monterey for many years, is now visiting with Mrs. Frieda Sharpe in Monterey.

Also visiting with Mrs. Sharpe and her daughter, Rosalind, for a few days was Flavia Flavin, before she returned to her father's ranch in the Cachagua. Miss Flavin had been in San Francisco and San Jose for several weeks.



A touch and you GO— that's DYNAFLOW!

YES, it boils down to just about that. You start your engine, set a lever — and from then on your treadle foot takes over.

You press the accelerator — and move softly and smoothly away.

You speed up, slow down, halt completely — and your right foot alone, operating gas treadle and brake, does it all.

How come? Simply because Dynaflow Drive is the one passenger car drive in America that gets completely away from gears which function in fixed stages.

Changes in the way oil flows, instead of changes in gears, adjust your engine power to your driving requirements.

Whether you are starting out, climbing a hill, surging past others or cruising easily, there's nothing for you to do except feed gas.

For very fast starts, extreme pulls, reserve braking power, you flick the selector lever—and your engine seems suddenly to double in size.

For parking, there is a very special setting, exclusive to Dynaflow Drive, that rigidly locks rear wheels.

Even rough and chattery roads are made smoother by power that flows along through a cushion of oil — your whole car is "sweeter" in its feel, far silkier in its actions.

Quite rightfully is Dynaflow Drive called the most important development since the self-starter.

It's a basically different way of transmitting power — and one you should know about firsthand.

See what your Buick dealer can do about arranging that for you. The merest sample of Dynaflow magic will make you want to place an order pronto, whether or not you have a car to trade!

Here's your Buick Dealer's Four-Square Selling Policy

1. NO PRICE PADDING. You receive an itemized bill of sale. We display all prices in our showroom.
2. NO "LOADING" OF ACCESSORIES. All cars are delivered with accessories as ordered; no "extras" except those you specify.
3. NO COMPULSORY TRADE-INS. We will accept your order and deliver your car with or without a car in trade.
4. NO COLLUSION WITH "GRAY MARKETEERS." We will not knowingly sell Buick cars to anyone who operates in the "gray market."

New Shows at Gallery

By Nancy Lofton

To look at, let alone comment about, pictures in the Carmel Art Gallery requires a constantly shifting point of view. The Carmel Art Association is blessed with an increasingly varied membership which means that anyone who enters the gallery with fixed ideas about painting is inevitably going to mutter either one of two things, "What are these horrible modern things doing here?" or "What are these horrible conservative things doing here?"

Both groups, whose boundaries have always escaped me, modern and conservative, are well represented in the current show at the gallery which includes a new oil show and a new water color show and a group of seventeen oils by Jeanette Maxfield Lewis. In either category I find pictures which well bear looking at and seem quite possibly to convey the idea or feeling by which the picture was conceived. William Ritschel's painting of The Belated Shell Fisher is full of dusk and loneliness and weariness. He has subdued his palette and his drawing to express a solid static figure in the midst of endless space and time.

Elwood Graham's Gavotte which hangs nearby is quite classic in comparison with Mr. Ritschel's romantic figure. The dancing bright movement of Mr. Graham's canvas is contained within a definite space. The whole center of his painting is activated but the motion returns constantly to itself within the picture except for one or two curious lines of force which momentarily lead the eye deep into the interior of the painting.

Various facets of life on the Peninsula are expressed in a kaleidoscopic and atmospheric idiom by Dorothy Wallgren, Kathryn Aurner, Patricia Cunningham, Marjorie Doolittle and Florence True. Barbara Stevenson's Indian Woman is a solid and contained painting which conveys to me the vividness as well as the diffidence such a person might possess.

Solidity and sureness, a strong interplay of light and shadow are the striking characteristics of the group of oil paintings by Jeanette Maxfield Lewis in the alcove of the main oil gallery. The majority of these canvases were painted in Mexico and they bear the stamp of the sharp contrasts of both color and light which seem to be characteristic of certain parts of Mexico. By her solid handling of light and shade Jeanette Lewis has built up solid and convincing forms and figures. Her handling of light falling upon and bouncing off of white surfaces is particularly pleasant. Her paint surface is frequently rich and fat and at very close quarters its juxtaposition of brilliant and contrasting color is exciting.

The church crowning a cypress stepped hill in clear but sombre air and a distant view of hills above which the air is filled with turmoil are most pleasing to me. Her large flower study is bright and brilliant and well animated.

The water color show is, on the whole, more interesting than the general oil show. Rollin Pickford's cold and clean High Flight is a joy to see, and Gene Frances' painting Gourds is exceptionally strong. To look at her painting is to feel the fingers curving around the shapes she paints. A little picture of Moonlit Blossoms by F. M. Moore is hauntingly delicate and gentle. Victor DeGesu is represented by a collage of startling activity and Paul Mays by a landscape bathed with cool golden light. If it isn't Provence, it ought to be. The majority of the water colors are interesting and efficient though the range of the water color show is not so wide as that of the oil show.

Both the water color and the oil show will hang until October 1. Jeanette Lewis' show will hang through September 15.

WRITERS CLUB OPENS

The Writers' Club of the Carmel Adult School will hold its first fall meeting Monday, September 13, at 7:30 p. m., in room 11 of Sunset School. All those who write or want to write are invited to join the discussion around the conference table. A feature of the open meeting will be the presentation of the 25-minute play by James Dyrenforth of the British Broadcasting Company, wire-recorded by Robert Weaver of the Highlands. Mr. Dyrenforth visited in Carmel during July and has now flown to England for the opening of his latest play, but he expects to return during the fall.

Mrs. Glenn Clairmonte will accept short story manuscripts for free criticism from any who care to join this Adult School group. They may be sent to her at Box 2669, Carmel, or handed to her in class.

HONOR YOUR NATIONAL GUARD

September 16 Is National Guard Day

. . . IN AMERICA

the tradition of citizen service is older than the nation itself. The North Regiment (now the 182d Infantry, Massachusetts National Guard) was organized from trainbands in 1636. Both George Washington and Patrick Henry were officers of the 1st Virginia Regiment (now the 176th Infantry, 29th Division, Virginia National Guard), which dates from 1652. These proud organizations, and many others like them, have lived through the years by the voluntary service of citizen-soldiers.

. . . THE UNITED STATES is vulnerable to attack, especially from the air, for our position between two oceans no longer assures us security.

. . . OUR REGULAR ESTABLISHMENT

has the greater part of its combat troops on occupation duty in Europe, Japan and Korea.

Most of the troops stationed in the continental United States are in the service and technical branches whose primary mission is to support the men overseas.

The master plan for the security of this Nation recognizes that the regular establishment must be reinforced by the civilian components.

. . . JUST ONE CONCLUSION IS POSSIBLE

If attack comes, we must depend in large measure upon the National Guard, because

THE NATIONAL GUARD IS THE ONLY CIVILIAN COMPONENT WITH TRAINED AND EQUIPPED UNITS IN ALL STRATEGICALLY LOCATED COMMUNITIES, CAPABLE OF REPULSING ATTACK!

Did You See . . . ?

By John Upton

Arturo Casiglia's production of Carmen drew a record crowd at the Forest Theater Sunday night. SRO signs would have been up if there had been any in the storeroom. Members of the audience stood, crouched, leaned against trees, breathed down the musicians' necks, and hugged each other on the benches, less from affection than from an effort to keep from being squeezed off onto the ground.

Consuelo Gonzales as Carmen gave one of the most spirited and intelligent performances Carmel has seen in a long while. In addition to a lovely operatic voice, she displayed a thorough understanding of a role that demands both vigor and humor to lift it to a semblance of tragedy. Self-centered, irritable, and petty, the gypsy cigarette girl who drives Don Jose to madness and murder is hardly a sympathetic character, particularly to a New World audience. Miss Gonzales brought the part to life and lent it a human warmth that inspired the rest of the company to a thoroughly enjoyable performance.

The prima donna Sunday night sang not only with her voice, but with her body: every shrug of the shoulders, every typically Latin gesture punctuated and gave new force to her lines. Her use of the fan in Act IV heightened the impression of an angry moth, blindly beating its way to ultimate destruction, that was characteristic of her whole performance. Miss Gonzales has a voice of extraordinary purity and power, and handles it with a nice sense of dynamics and nuance.

Of the supporting cast, perhaps the most remarkable was Barbara Barnes, as the naive little peasant girl, Micaela. Her solo in Act III was one of the most appealing arias of the evening. Her voice has great warmth and clarity, particularly in the upper register, and showed a delicacy and restraint well-suited to the role of the child innocently embroiled in a tempest of passions.

Ernest Lawrence as Don Jose, while in some degree lacking in stage presence, warmed to his work as the evening progressed. His solo in Act II was highly convincing in its passionate outburst, while the Carmen-Jose duet in Act IV was perhaps the best performance of the opera. The slight self-consciousness that characterized some of his early scenes evaporated in the vigor of his sympathetic portrayal of the crushed and desperate lover.

Francis Barnes as Escamillo displayed a rich and powerful bass, although one or two notes were almost below his range, particularly in the ubiquitous Toreador Song. Charles Goodwin as Zuniga turned out a thoughtful, relaxed performance, particularly effective in the drunk scene. The balance of the competent supporting cast included Elma Heitmann, Imogene Cornwell, Max Lorenzini; and Nullo Caravacci.

A pleasant surprise to many of the audience Sunday night was the Ballet Espanol at the beginning of Act IV, led by premier danseur Enrique Valadez. This fiery ensemble's all too short appearance was a kaleidoscope of brilliant colors and a masterpiece of Latin abandon. Mrs. Byron MacDonald, director, and Valadez are to be congratulated on their authentic and spirited group.

Carmen was the last of a series of four operas presented at the Forest Theater last weekend. Thursday's Rigoletto was memorable for the outstanding performance by Harold Reed in the title role. Reed's welding of sound musicianship and easy stage personality typifies the trend toward conception of grand opera as representational entertainment, rather than as organized virtuosity. As Lord Henry Ashton in Saturday's Lucia di Lammermoor, he displayed his versatility in a highly competent portrayal of the profligate and grasping brother.

Splendora Merlitti, as Gilda in Rigoletto and as Lucia, played two contrasting roles with grace

POEM FOR SOMETIME

Like light on the other side
Of night, like word which yet no tongue
Articulates, like the impending
Peal of bells unrung

Like dream of summer in the snow
Or any place but where you are,
Like holding aces, lucky throw,
Wishing on a star

Like everything tomorrow is,
Promised ransom and release,
But later, no, not yet, not now
Is peace, O sometime peace.

—J. S. Moodey

WHY DOES MAN GRIEVE ALONE?

A slinking, stooping dwarf, a spineless thing,
Man, fearful his grief may be audible,
Throttles his throat from all men's listening,
Shrinking into himself, as in a cell.

Stricken and sore, he shuns the healing light,
Maybe with blind and groping hands to find
The broken years and piece again aright
The old life pattern he has left behind.

Man licks the bruises of his heart alone,
A primitive, in places dark, unlit:
As his forebears nursed aching jowl and bone,
In solitude, mute in a primal pit.
Why does man, who seeks fire as birds seek dawn,
Shut out his grief from a place in the sun?

—Alex R. Schmidt

MIRAGE

Wave upon wave of sand, dunes rolling onward
till in the distance sky and earth merge.
The clouds shimmer in the haze
as the winds whirl dust in the burning air;
the sun is a silver disc seen faintly through dust-veils.
All the desert is in tremulous motion where weird shapes wheel like witches dancing.

Far away is an oasis;
cool sweet waters and waving palm trees.
The camels drink from the sparkling lake and ostriches stand on the reeded banks.

Now the vast desert is illusion,
the shadowed vision is reality;
the weary feet regain their speed,
the aching eyes drink in the greenness, but it remains the unattainable.

—David Atamian

LEAF OF LIGHT

The sun retracts the shadow on the wall
And turns upon the stone a leaf of light,
As elm trees let their golden garments fall
Along the widening border of the night.

—Orian DePledge

Days Before Yesterday

By Carol Card

So you think the Pacific Opera Company's four magnificent performances last week were Carmel's first taste of grand opera? Not so—at least, not entirely so. They were the first full-length grand operas presented here. But in the course of our snooping in The Pine Cone files, we have found that grand opera has been to Carmel twice before in shortened form. Let us refresh our memories.

How many old-timers recall the nights of December 21 and 22, 1923, when a condensation of Gounod's Faust was presented at the newly completed Arts and Crafts Theater by members of the San Francisco Opera Company? It was given in costume by a cast of three singers —a soprano, a tenor, and a basso, representing Marguerite, Faust, and Mephistopheles respectively—accompanied by a piano and an organ. All the principal arias, duets, and trios were sung in this condensed version of the opera, and enough of the recitative to tell the story, without the aid of a chorus or any other characters.

So Carmel went to the opera and had a wonderful time, since no critic could warn the good folk in advance that the performance was no good and that it would not be smart to like it. The Pine Cone carried a brief but benign review. "The characters were well sung and well acted, and brought forth frequent applause and encores," wrote the innocent and unsuspecting reporter.

Carmel was soon enlightened, however. A local critic, writing for the Monterey Peninsula Herald, published a corrosive attack on the performance and reminded the hayseeds pretty sharply that they must not allow outsiders to insult their intelligence by offering them a fifth-rate side-show under the false label of grand opera. After all, they were a sophisticated and discriminating audience—weren't they?

Carmel promptly and characteristically split into two equally vociferous factions. One party damned the Faust performance utterly. The other group admitted it hadn't been exactly first class, but liked it anyway. After all, the performers had TRIED, hadn't they? They had done their best with the music. Did the critics think THEY could sing Faust any better themselves, pray tell? And so the controversy boiled in the columns of the local paper for two weeks.

This thorny garland of critical opinion and opinionated criticism published in The Pine Cone certainly gives us some interesting glimpses of the first grand opera performance in Carmel. Said one: "Mephistopheles' loose, flopping shoe distracted me very much. Aside from that . . . it was a creditable performance." Growled another: "The biggest joke about the recent grand opera production was that there were some people who accepted it seriously. . . . Carmel has always encouraged the finest, and we have no room for inferior stuff such as one piano, one wheezy organ, three singers squeaking in three different languages. . . ." (Hmm!!! Could be that their pronunciation of French left something to be desired?)

Maybe it was all this vitriolic comment that scared grand opera away from Carmel. Maybe not. Whatever the reason, it did not venture to show its nose in "these hyar parts" again for seventeen years. Then, on May 24, 1940, Victor Giglio's XX Century Grand Opera Company made its debut in the musical world, at Sunset School auditorium. Giglio was a Peninsula resident and the new company had been founded in Monterey. This was a "streamlined" opera company, composed of only four sopranos, a contralto, two tenors, and a basso; two pianos and a violin provided musical accompaniment. Young singers who had yet to make their reputations were featured, for one of the purposes in founding this company was to give such singers an

King And Queen Of Gamblers, At First Theatre, Fast Moving Show

By Barbara Schilly

"Yes," says she, "we are the king and queen of gamblers and you," Dolores continues, accusingly pointing to the shifty character dressed in black, "are the knave." The audience hisses, several men are killed in the meantime, the heroine swoons . . . and your reporter is not quite sure whether it was Dolores who made above stark statement or just exactly how many men were killed for action runs much too rapid and rampant through each scene for one single person to be able to know all that is happening.

But, the First Theater's King and Queen of Gamblers was the most fun this reviewer has had in a long time, and anyway, details don't really matter too much; one is safe from any worry by knowing that Jack Diamond, tall and stalwart hero, will always come rushing onto the stage whenever things look darkest.

The new tense and highly dramatic Denny-Watrous production is a boon for anyone who wants to relax, laugh a great deal, and have a wonderful time in general. Added to that, you get to eat peanuts during the oleo . . . now what more could a person ask from an evening's entertainment!

Director Robert Douglas Hume did a wonderful job with the selection and coaching of the cast, and the cast in turn murdered their material just enough so that the result was hammy done to the right degree.

Patricia Trevvett, as hard and calculating Dolores, the undisputed queen of the gamblers (who holds forth at the Blazing Star Saloon) played her part brilliantly, and the death scene . . . the last death scene we mean, not to get the reader confused with the numerous other like spectacles . . . was spectacular.

Al Railton, who copped the choice part of Percy Dunraven, the English tourist, was excellent. Unfortunately, though, he bore such a resemblance to Charlie McCarthy whenever he donned his monocle that this critic is unable to give an unbiased review, Charlie being one of her favorites.

Sweet, beautiful, demure Sylvia (with a little side music of hearts and flowers) was portrayed by adjectively similar Theodora (Terry) Henderson, who is able to look stricken better than a called-out ball player. If Terry is not snatched by a talent scout from H'wood or B'dway first, she should certainly have a fine future displaying "the look" over coming televised soap operas. However, from horse opera to the soapy variety of same is not too much of a rise, and Terry deserves the best.

Everyone else (inclusively) in the show was wonderful, too. Members of the cast were Helen Taft, Roland Scheffler, Carmen Mercante, James Vincent, Dariel Henderson, Eileen McDermott, Charles Newsome, Robert Boord (the dashing hero), and Joseph E. McDermed. Others in the "awry" of talent and who played the "bad men" convincingly were Salvadore Pinola and Wayne Edwards.

Following a short intermission during which a land office business was done at the peanut counter, the olio was presented. All that was able to reach the ear over the din of the cracking and crunching of said nut merchandise, sounded wonderful, too, especially Gail Johnson and Eleanor Kappes, the greatest little singing team this side of Pacific Avenue.

Others in the olio, not already mentioned, were Gene Keith and Avis Hansen and the settings were wonderful, too!

Days Before Yesterday

opportunity. Costumes were traditional, but the stage sets were simplified. The program consisted of one act from Aida, two acts from Thais, and an act from Lucia di Lammermoor. We understand that the performance was successful, but unfortunately we could find no reviews of it in the next issue of The Pine Cone. Nor do we know what became of the company afterward. If Mr. Giglio is still residing locally, perhaps he could tell us?

Did You See?

and ease. Her voice is not a powerful one, but is characterized by sweetness and meticulous intonation. She handled both parts with restraint and taste.

Vera Osborne, as Violetta Valery in La Traviata Friday night, sang the coloratura role in Verdi's adaptation of Dumas' La Dame aux Camelias effortlessly and without affectation. Other artists in the four productions were John Getas, Antonio Berton, Frank Bonaldi, Jeanette Goudzward, Joseph Tissier, Rudolph Rulli, Mary Manly, and Rose O'Brien.

The Pacific Opera Company, well-known in San Francisco for its Dollar Opera productions at the War Memorial Opera House, hopes to return to the Forest Theater next season, possibly with a more complete orchestra. Sunday's competent nine-piece group was composed of members of the San Francisco Symphony. The musicians gave workmanlike support to the production under the baton of Maestro Casiglia, in spite of weather conditions that would have driven members of a less determined string section frantic.

ASTHENOPIA
[EYESTRAIN]
Tonight in thousands of rooms considered "well lighted" young eyes are being harmed by light that is either too dim or is raw, harsh and glaring.
Improper lighting is a principal cause of eyestrain with accompanying headache and drowsy fatigue. In severe cases eyes should be examined and glasses prescribed. But in all cases light must be right—better light for better sight.
PICKS IT S VICTIMS YOUNG

1 of every 5 children in grade school suffers from impaired vision. Poor lighting causes unnecessary eyestrain.

2 out of 5 college graduates have defective sight . . . a result which good lighting might have helped to prevent.
Protect young eyes these 4 ways: 1. Provide a good study lamp for the students in your home. 2. Make sure each lamp has a bulb of the right size. 3. Be sure the light is diffused—not glaring. 4. Clean lamp shade and reflector bowl for better, whiter light.

Dickinson House Guest

Mary Lindsay-Oliver, creative musician, painter and literateur, who had a cottage in Carmel a number of years ago and whose production of the Mikado, given at the W. W. Wheeler residence in Pebble Beach, will be remembered by many, has been in town as an overnight guest of the Henry Dickinsons at the Point. Miss Lindsay-Oliver had come here from San Francisco, where she was painting a portrait of Mrs. Edward Howden. She says that she is determined to return to Carmel as she feels more at home here than anywhere else.

Council Of Church Women

Announcement that the indebtedness on Hay's Chapel in Seaside was paid off during the past summer was greeted with enthusiasm at the meeting of the Monterey Peninsula Council of Church Women last Friday at the First Baptist Church in Monterey. Hay's Chapel for several years has been one of the local projects to which the C. C. W. has contributed funds and the women were glad to learn that it has become a successful organization, as have other groups which the women have aided in the past. The members voted to have a committee look into other needs on the Peninsula and make recommendation on the next project to be given assistance. Mrs. M. O. Lawrence of Pacific Grove, president, will announce names of the committee shortly.

For the next meeting of the Church Women on World Community Day, November 5, clothing will be assembled to be sent to needy people in Europe through the Church World Service, an inter-denominational body organized for this purpose. In common with church groups throughout the United States, women on the Monterey Peninsula have been meeting during the summer mending and making clothing to fill this great need. Last year the national United Council of Church Women far exceeded its goal of 500,000 complete outfits of clothing and school supplies for children of Europe and the project is continuing this year.

On November 5 the national president of U. C. C. W., Mrs. Harper Sibley of New York, will be featured on the Westinghouse radio program conducted by Ted Malone and will tell of her organization's work in this relief.

A request for materials and supplies for migrant relief in this country, especially toys, crayons and children's magazines, was reported, to be distributed as needed by the Home Missions Council. The latter group also looks after the needs of Indians and of the sharecroppers in the south. The church women are urged to give their support to UNESCO, as one of the United Nations organizations whose constructive activities are designed to promote international understanding and peace.

Following the box luncheon and business meeting, Dr. K. Fillmore Gray, pastor of Carmel's Church of the Wayfarer, spoke in the Baptist Church auditorium on the theme "That we all may be one," pointing to the meeting taking place this week of the World Council of Churches in Amsterdam, with the purpose of unifying the constructive social work of the different denominations.

University Women

Five study groups in the American Association of University Women on the Monterey Peninsula are active now, Mrs. Norman Naas of Pacific Grove, president, told her executive committee which met last week at the home of Miss Gertrude Rendtorff. The recent graduates group met last evening at the home of Mrs. Girard Woelfel in Monterey, and will meet regularly on the second Thursday of the month. The arts and crafts group will meet September 30, and thereafter on the first Mondays. The radio listening group meets on the fourth Wednesdays, this month on the 22nd. The book section meets the second Tuesdays, and the child study section on the fourth Thursdays, but this month on the 16th.

The opening meeting of A. A. U. W. is a social tea on September 18 to welcome new members. General chairman is Mrs. Gordon Beall, who is this year's hostess chairman. The place is American Legion Hall in Carmel, and a good attendance is expected. On October 20 the legislative and social studies chairman will have charge of the second general meeting, with Mrs. Charles Dawson in charge of the program. Other meetings through the year will feature in turn the various interests and activities of the organization.

Composer Visits

Warren Burns, student of music at the University of California at Berkeley, is visiting the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Knuth at Fifth and Santa Fe streets. Mr. Burns gained recognition throughout the Bay area this summer by composing, orchestrating and conducting the incidental mood music for The Arbitration, the comedy by Menander. The play, revised by Gilbert Murray, was staged through six performances at Wheeler Auditorium by the University of California department of dramatic art. Theresa Loeb, critic for the Oakland Tribune, commended the music as being "very charming."

All Saints' Activities

The Church School of All Saints' Episcopal Church in Carmel will begin its fall term Sunday, September 12, at 9:30 a. m. There will be classes for all ages beginning with the kindergarten.

The school has an excellent staff of teachers and a well organized program under the leadership of George Ziegler, a student at the Church Divinity School of the Pacific.

The first fall meeting of the Young Peoples' Fellowship of All Saints' Episcopal Church will be held September 12, at 5:30 p. m. in the Parish House. There will be reports from those who attended the summer youth conferences at El Rancho del Obispo in Healdsburg this past summer. Plans for the fall will be discussed followed with supper at the new snack bar. The meeting will close with the traditional brief service of worship in the church. Youth of high school and junior college ages are most cordially invited to attend and join the fellowship. Military personnel in this area will be especially welcomed.

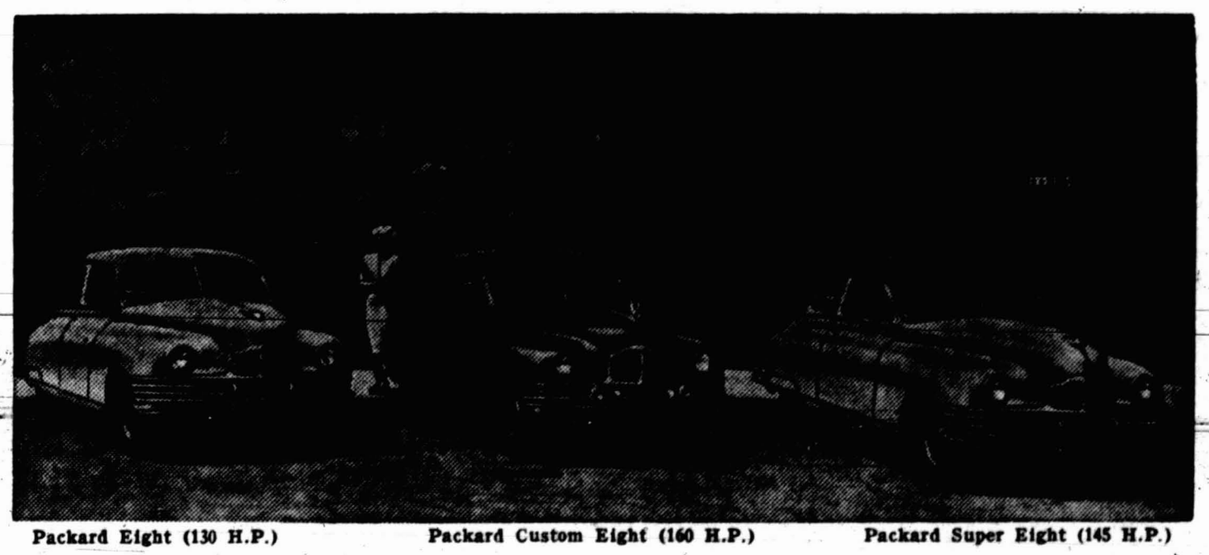
Packard Awarded Gold Medal for "Fashion Car of the Year" by Academy which annually names "Best Dressed Women".



Packard Eight (130 H.P.) Packard Custom Eight (160 H.P.) Packard Super Eight (145 H.P.)

Fashion Academy, famous New York school of design and styling which has selected "America's Best Dressed Women" for the past 20 years, chose the 1948 Packard today as the "Fashion Car of the Year."

Emil Alvin Hartman, director of the 32-year-old academy, notified George T. Christopher, president and general manager of the Packard Motor Car Company, that Packard would receive the gold medal award for "outstanding design," and explained:

"In making our selection, we were concerned not with the mechanical achievements of the car, but rather by its silouette and its 'woman appeal.' Of the great amount of data and photos submitted to us by the manufacturers, we eliminated quite a few because of what we term being 'overdressed'."

Cast Party

As the climax of an interesting San Francisco weekend, Dorothy Dean attended the party given by Dale Lefler for the dancing members of Magdalena, now playing in San Francisco. Mr. Lefler, who once toured with Ted Shawn, is one of the talented young dancers who perform the modern interpretive dancing for the popular musical adventure. Miss Dean reports that Magdalena will open in New York on September 20, and after a two year run there, will tour in South America and England.

Ballet Photographs

Some of the most interesting photographs we've seen were taken by Carl van Vechten of Mary Burr in the Anthony Tudor extravaganza known as Shadow in the Wind. Alicia Alonso and Johnny Kriza also danced to the music of Gustav Mahler, and, according to Mrs. Burr, the costumes were fabulous, made of pure gold and silk materials and sewn with gold thread. Mr. van Vechten, who has almost given up writing to indulge in his hobby of amateur photographer, wrote Mrs. Burr that The Pine Cone was the only newspaper in which he would permit any of his photographs to be reprinted, and we hope soon to present a picture of Mrs. Burr in one of the magnificent costumes of the oriental fantasy.

Carmel Wedding

With Dr. K. Fillmore Gray performing the quiet and intimate ceremony, Marie L. Brailsford and Clarence Bates were married Saturday, September 4, at 8:30 in the evening in the Torres Inn. Miss Brailsford is the sister of Howard G. Brailsford of the Torres Inn, and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Brailsford of Berkeley. Miss Brailsford has made Carmel her home for the last year; Mr. Bates has lived here for several years, finding it an excellent place for a sculptor to work in; he came originally from Eugene, Oregon. The couple are spending their honeymoon in the south of California, and will then return to Carmel to live.

Wayfarer Activities

Rally Day on Sunday at the Church of the Wayfarer will mark the resumption of the regular Church School schedule for the fall. This will mean that the Junior and Junior High Department, under Mrs. Harlan Reyburn, will meet at 9:30 a. m., while the Kindergarten and Primary Department, of which Mrs. Louis B. Sawyer is superintendent, will meet at 11 o'clock. Special programs will be presented at both hours for the children and young people.

Mr. Alton H. Walker will show a film, Seeing Mexico in Your Own Car, at the September meeting of the Men of the Wayfarer, on next Thursday evening, September 16, at 7 p. m. This movie, which he took on a trip to the neighboring country, will be shown following the dinner in the dining room of the Hotel La Ribera.

Dr. Francis H. Sparks, president of the organization, has announced that there will be a surprise feature at the meeting, and the first of a series of interviews, Know Your Wayfarers, giving those present a chance to learn the story behind one of the men present. Dinner reservations for the meeting are asked of those planning to attend.

Delbert R. Jeffers, city librarian of Monterey, will be the speaker for the Women's Auxiliary of the Church of the Wayfarer on Tuesday. He will speak on the subject, " When History Was Being Made on the Monterey Peninsula. The program will follow a salad luncheon to be served at 12:30 p. m. in the social hall of the church by a group of women of whom Mrs. Walter Kreisler is chairman.

Presiding during the short business meeting will be Mrs. P. M. Bigelow, vice president of the auxiliary, and Mrs. Charles E. Corbin will present the devotions. Luncheon reservations may be made with Mrs. Kreisler or at the church office between 12 and 4.

Hesthals In Oaxaca

Bill and Edna Hesthal, who used to live and paint in the Carmel Highlands with frequent exhibits of their work in Monterey and San Francisco, are now in Oaxaca, which they say is "fabulously beautiful and we love it, but we've found we've only spoken to three people in English since we've been in Mexico (just short of two months) and that for no long discussion, and we aim for Mexico City where there'll be someone to discuss something with." They plan first, however, on attending the Calenda fiestas in the Isthmus of Tehuantepec.

Off To Belgium

After three round the world trips, Richard Norris is off again, this time for the purpose of getting his wife out of Belgium and into this country which, according to Mr. Norris, is a difficult and complicated maneuver. Mr. Norris' appearances in Carmel, the last few years, have been sudden, unexpected, and short, as he rushed down from San Francisco to say hello to a few friends for a few hours then rushed back to his ship. This time, however, he actually spent four days on the Peninsula, then left Sunday morning with the do or die determination to bring his wife back to the Peninsula.

Always managing to keep an atmosphere of charm and dignity about its waiting room, JOE'S TAXI depot on Sixth and Junipero street is a pleasant place to go, even if you aren't looking for a taxi or a bus. Bricks, redwood, and plants are the background decor for the waiting room, and a fire on foggy nights is a cheerful accent. The twenty-four hour, seven day a week counter service is something to remember, too, when suddenly at 1:00 a. m. you decide you want some especially delicious hot cakes, or a waffle, or a steak. As for the taxi service end of it, the drivers are Carmel-wise, and know how to find a house even if it's surrounded with pine trees and carefully blocked up with fences and foliage.

Interesting and beautiful is the display of colored Ming trees in the window of the FLOR DE MONTEREY on Franklin street in Monterey. The delicate Oriental trees are green and yellow and terra cotta, planted in deep moss, set in pottery much of which is made in Carmel. Neatly accentuating the trees are little figurines of Chinese philosophers and wanderers, poetically resting beneath the ephemeral shade of the Ming tree. Matching the trees for subtlety of color and beauty are the orchid sprays in the window, in deep colors of off-gold and chocolate. Nice and exotic to take home with you from the FLOR DE MONTEREY, a dainty Ming tree, or a wonderful spray of orchids, or why not both!

Exquisite fashionables in the way of accessories are to be found at the HARRIET DUNCAN SHOP: Life Bras and Beautee-fit of nylon in soft pink, nude, blue and dramatic black, and strapless bras in white and black. Knock-out number of the lingerie collection is a nylon garment of strapless bra, waist minimizer, and garters; you don this little number plus an evening gown, and you're off for the Lodge or maybe El Morocco. High style stockings are to be found in Beautiful Bryans with high fashion shades in sheer and near sheer and the stunning high style heel. Find your fashion accessories at HARRIET DUNCAN'S on Sixth street.

Fitted or full are the new coats at GAIL COUPE'S on San Carlos, Carmel, showing the full look of last fall with the possibly newer fitted and belted look of this September. Spectacularly interesting among the coats are heavy full ones of red or white with black whipped diagonally across them forming enormous squares of color; there is a fitted green covert coat, a full soft gray with deep pockets, some interesting Leeds coats with detachable plaid scarves, and a deep green belted gabardine. Wrap yourselves, gather yourselves in the warm wool coats for fall at GAIL COUPE'S shop on San Carlos. Phone 666-W.

Dresses that are dying to go to the coming golf tournament are to be found at TWIGS OF CARMEL in the Golden Bough Court off Ocean Avenue; they are of English broadcloth and are to be custom made from several different designs in colors of blue, yellow, pink, or a wonderful lavenderish cocoa shade. One of the styles is slim, tailored, with an ascot; another is two piece with an Eisenhower type jacket with slight flare to the skirt; and still another buttons down the front and has four pockets each accented with a button. All the dresses have terrific action to give you fine maneuverability if you're taking an active sport part.

The TIP TOP INN on San Carlos is showing a shining new face with a re-decoration job in the way of new booths of knotty pine with tables that give the appearance of reddish marble, new drapes at the windows, new paintings hung about the sea green walls, and soft candle light for evening dining. The whole new aspect is one of coziness and warmth. New hours too are from 12:00 midday until 8:00 in the evening; with this timetable the TIP TOP INN is prepared to serve you lunch and dinner with an a la carte menu that permits you a wide variety of choice.

Of interest to all Carmel is the new Don Blanding book, Mostly California, now on display at the VILLAGE BOOK SHOP on Ocean Avenue. Publishing date for the book was September 7, and publishers are Dodd, Meade. Don Blanding, who lived in Carmel for many years, is expected here in October, and the VILLAGE BOOK SHOP will plan a party for him. Mostly California contains poems and pictures in the usual Blanding style, and a particularly amusing bit about Carmel dogs in which Carmel dogs and their Carmel owners somehow seem to look alike and are but slightly distinguishable.

Providing you with spectacular scenery and more spectacular food than ever, the HIGHLANDS INN, managed by Mr. Dudley Yard, presents its new maitre d'hotel and steward, Frank Hershey, who has a fabulous record behind him of head man at the Fairmont, the Clift, and the Mark Hopkins, all San Francisco hotels with fine food reputations. Mr. Hershey also once owned his own hotel in Java in the East Indies. So renew your enjoyment of the HIGHLANDS INN with its all year round panorama of beauty and its all year round serving of fine food with Mr. Hershey now at the food helm.

Neat trick of the year is the new basket arrangement for baby food at KIP'S GROCERY STORE on Ocean Avenue. The days of reaching for one little can and spilling three are over, now that all the cans in the baby food department are arranged for you in baskets placed on the shelves. You can do all the fumbling, groping and selecting you want, to please baby with just the cereals, fruits, and vegetables he wants, and you won't spill anything, and it will all be so much more comfortable and easy than the good old confused days. So when shopping for those little mouths, remember the neat basket arrangements of baby food at KIP'S GROCERY STORE.

The CARMEL VALLEY INN is still having its evening barbecues around the pool, and they are still one of the most popular weekly valley events. This Saturday will see the last of the Saturday barbecues, which will be carried on on Thursday nights only. If you have never tried one of these, it is high time you took advantage of the wonderful steaks broiled in the outside patio around the gleaming and beautiful green valley pool. The steaks are excellent, there is often Carmel valley corn, and you will see many of your friends from all Peninsula points. Jump in your car Thursday evening, have a pleasant ride out to the valley, and a wonderful steak barbecue at the CARMEL VALLEY INN.

For fall, for the golf tournament, for a smart look and a narrow wallet, are the dresses at the CARMEL DRESS SHOP. Sizes 10-16 will be pleased with the new shipment of corduroys, one of the best fall materials, in tailored looking dresses with full skirts, gold buttons and belts, and bright colors of green, red, and gray. Of pinwale corduroy, feeling like velvet, the dresses sell for $19.95. A line of classic shirtmakers in rayon gabardine will please all sport enthusiasts; these are in sizes 12-42, sell for $19.95 or $22.95, and are in fine fall colors of dark reds, soft greens, easy beige, with trim touches in cuffs, buttons and belts.

The fine decor and high class atmosphere surrounding LE CAFE CASA BLANCA on the Fremont extension may lead you to believe that its prices are sky high, which, of course, can be true if you want to feast on snails and wine, on imported champagne; on the other hand, entrees start at $2.00 and one can have a complete meal for $2.50. The prices are as reasonable as the food, service, and surroundings are expensive, so that by dining at LE CAFE CASA BLANCA one completes the cycle and fulfills all the elements of fine and pleasant dining.

The LITTLE GEM LAUNDRAMATIC on Junipero has more than one nugget in its gem collection: Instead of having your chenille and rag rugs dry cleaned, you can have it wash and dry them for you in minimum time at minimum expense.

Golf enthusiasts will be swarming the Peninsula for the coming golf tournament and they will want to take their relaxation at the most relaxed place in the world, SADE'S on Ocean Avenue. Do your golf chatting and note comparing on putts and shots at SADE'S; whether you're an observer of the tournament or an active participant, there will certainly be those moments when you want a comfortable seat somewhere and a leisurely resume of the day's activities, and you won't want to miss what's going on there anymore than you want to miss a minute of the tournament.

Twenty minutes down the coast at Bixby Creek is GALLATIN'S restaurant with all you could ask for in the way of scenic distinction. You dine at tables looking out over a slowly darkening Pacific; any nostalgia you may have had for other coasts and other views slowly drifts away as you grow mellow and happy with superb view, food, and atmosphere, not to mention genial host and hostess Lou and Gal Powers. The miles are short as you speed down to GALLATIN'S, the hours are delightful that you spend at GALLATIN'S, and though the drive back is fun, you wish that you hadn't had to leave at all.

Pine Needles . . .

Male Comments At Coupe Show

"This certainly appears to have been my lucky day as well as an auspicious beginning to a well earned vacation," said author Lincoln Randall as I hauled him off to get more first hand male reaction to the fashion show, this week put on by Gail Coupe. "Despite my protestations of abysmal ignorance in that direction the matter was settled with 'we need male comments, you're male, aren't you?' and my career as male fashion commentator began at the Pine Inn, surrounded with and befuddled by the ultimate in feminine pulchritude, fashion, design, color, adornment, scent, decoctions and emulsions."

Confused Mr. Randall, who felt that sometimes he couldn't tell the woman from the clothes or the clothes from the woman was sensationally pleased with three of the coats, a magnificent imported English tweed with tweed scarf tossed about the shoulders, a tan wool lined with plaid, also with the new idea of detachable plaid scarf, and a full but tightly gathered and belted pale green coat which had terrific spirit and zip to it.

Lots of plaid, lots of purple, lots of satin was shown. "What a handsome girl," said Mr. Randall, when I asked him how he liked a purple dress with full skirt modeled by Joy Miller. To a black gabardine suit with long slim skirt and flared peplum, all the German scholar could gasp was "Ausgeschneit." He felt that a neat little suit of gray wool top, plaid skirt, and plaid accents was as fresh as a milkshake, and completely confused by statuesque Margo Bauer in a bronze satin suit with rounded padded effect in the jacket, he leaned over and asked "Is it leather?" He was rather taken with Sandra Randle in a black velvet top with plaid skirt and plaid ascot, but was not too pleased with a long red wool coat, and reacted with imminent confusion to a crepe and taffeta black dress with a bow bustle effect shown by blonde Ann Miller. The same confusion was registered when he had to make up his mind about an emerald satin suit with draped frontal effect in the jacket, then all confusion disappeared when he glimpsed a double breasted slate-gray slim skirted suit. "Like a yacht in the dawn off Bali," said Mr. Randall of a full maroon three quarter coat over a blue wool dress. The most difficult problem I had with Mr. Randall was getting him to comment about the clothes and not the models. "Many times I have asked myself, 'was it the woman or was it the clothes?'" says Mr. Randall. "There being only one way to find out, I have later asked myself, 'Was it the same woman or different clothes, or was it a different woman in the same clothes?' There is of course no answer, so do with me what you will." Mr. Randall was dressed in an olive drab suit with cotton maroon tie.

Commenting for Rod and Gail Coupe was Claudia Pollack, interior decorator from Orinda. She was smartly dressed in a black faille suit with fish tail effect. Hair dos of Mrs. Pollack and Joy Miller were by El Paseo Beauty Studio.

Teachers' Vacations

Carmel teachers from the Sunset School were about equally divided between those who simply relaxed in Carmel, and those who decided to get out of Carmel for the summer. Stay at homes were Ann B. Uzzell, Mrs. Myra T. Mylar, Anna Kohner, Mrs. Katherine French, Constance McLaughlin, with some summer school at Salinas, Marjorie Murdock McCausland, and Arthur Hull.

Travelers were Florence C. Morrow, who went camping at Jackson Hole in Wyoming, Mrs. Beatrice Rea, who attended Columbia University and toured the New England states, Dorothy Russel Skelley and her son, Patrick, who visited with Patrick's grandmother, Mrs. Mildred L. Russel in Los Angeles, Ernest R. Calley, who went to Lake Tahoe and Nevada City. Mr. and Mrs. Orville Rogers went to Ann Arbor, Michigan, James H. Blee to Sequoia national park, Virginia Neill Rush attended summer session at Occidental college and visited in Newport Beach, and Harriett A. Norman spent a month at Lake Tahoe. Mrs. Audrey Crawford went to Silver Lake in Lassen County. Edna C. Lockwood went to Clearlake Highlands. Neva June Gribble went to San Francisco and Monterey. Miss Winifred Regier visited the Hawaiian Islands, Honolulu and Kauai, and Marcia Frisbee De Voe took a fascinating trip through the northwest, traveling to Vancouver and taking the Alaskan steamship, Aleutian, for a two weeks' voyage through the inland passage north to Seward, Alaska.

Pink And Green Motif

Pink and green were the beautiful colors used in church and gown for the wedding ceremony uniting Virginia Shepard Snow and Kenneth Bennet in marriage in the Church of the Wayfarer at 8:00 o'clock on Saturday evening, with Dr. K. Fillmore Gray officiating. The church was decorated with huge baskets of pink roses and pink asters, the bride was gowned in an ice pink satin bouffant gown with a net flounce, and matron of honor, Mrs. Andrew Shepard, and bridesmaid Mrs. Clete Lee, wore sea foam green silk. The bride was given away by her father, Charles Clarpe Shepard, Jr.; best man was Charles Amspoker, and ushers were Andrew Shepard, Clete Lee, and Allen Fraser.

A reception was held at the Beach Club after the ceremony, where the wedding party received over 125 guests. Champagne was served with the cake, and the bridal bouquet was caught by Miss Mimi Townsend. The Bennetts will honeymoon at Lake Tahoe, then return to Salinas, where Mr. Bennett is in business.

Victoria Vacation

Returning from a month's vacation in Victoria, B. C., are Marjorie Pegram and Celia Seymour, who visited with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mist, formerly of Pebble Beach. They drove in Miss Seymour's car, returning by the Mt. Shasta route, and stopping in Portland to visit Miss Pegram's sister, Mrs. J. Nelson Barry.

Jeffers Leave Ireland

Mr. and Mrs. Robinson Jeffers are flying from Ireland on September 20, and will land in New York at La Guardia Field on the morning of the 21st. They will remain in New York for two days, then fly to the coast, arriving in Carmel on September 24, if all goes according to schedule.

Sister For Stephen

Young Stephen Ruth, two years old, acquired a baby sister at 1:03 Wednesday noon, born to Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Ruth of Pacific Grove. Her name is Penelope. Mr. Ruth is a member of the faculty at Monterey Peninsula College.

SCOUTING The SHOPS

An interesting new shipment of Hobe jewelry has arrived at the VILLAGE JEWELERS on Dolores street, all hand made with sterling silver base. With implications of the Orient and the Renaissance, the pins, rings, and necklaces glitter with jewels and delicate hand carved work of Chinese figures, silver flowers, and gold work over sterling. There are pins of silver, and hand carved chess figures, huge and handsome rings of one startling jewel, or many glittering stones, fascinating earrings that swing and glitter. You must see the collection of Hobe jewels at the VILLAGE JEWELERS.

Seen in the window of GUMP'S on Dolores street is a pleasant pottery twosome of Holiday pottery in a set of ten pieces, softly modeled on modern lines in modern color of sage gray. The pottery, exclusively designed for GUMP'S, will be specially packaged for you and mailed, as a set, for $4.95. The set consists of 2 plates, 2 salad plates, 2 bowls, and cups and saucers and can be ordered in cinnamon brown, copper pink, turquoise, or sage gray. Available also are creamer and sugar, salad bowl, vegetable dish and chop plate. Be sure to look in the Dolores street window and see the Holiday Ware, exclusive with GUMP'S.

Herman Is Found

Herman, the Central American charmer, owned by Lou and Gal Powers, has been found once more, this time at the home of Laidlaw Williams, where the little monkey likes to go roost with the chickens. Usually on his run-away trips he goes from house to house but this time he was so pleased with the Williams' chickens that he stayed for several days until Mr. Williams finally got him into a cage and sent him home.

Fishing Trip

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Cochrane have returned from a ten day fishing trip at the Pittsburg Club at Henry's Lake in Idaho. It sounds like a successful fishing trip with all credit going to Mrs. Cochrane for the largest haul of the ten days, a 4½ pound rainbow trout.

Henry Miller Guest Speaker At First Meeting Of Class

Henry Miller, whose latest book, The Smile at the Foot of the Ladder, has just appeared in artistic format, will be the guest speaker at the fall opening of Mrs. Glenn Clairmonte's current literature group, at 7:30 Tuesday evening, September 14, in room 11 of Sunset School.

Mr. Miller, who lives at Partington Ridge, has published over forty books and pamphlets, all of which were discussed before this group last year by Toni Ricketts. Perhaps his best known are the group of essays, The Wisdom of the Heart, and his comment on American institutions, The Air-Conditioned Nightmare.

Visitors are always welcome to attend these literary discussions without charge, but all who wish to attend are requested to arrive early, since it may be necessary to refuse admission after the seats are filled.

ALL SAINTS' LUNCHEON

The opening entertainment of the autumn season to be given by the Women's Auxiliary of All Saints' Episcopal Church, will take place on Thursday, September 16. It will be a luncheon in the Parish House at 12:30 p. m., followed by a talk on The Church, Today and Tomorrow. The speaker will be the Reverend A. Ronald Merrix. Mr. Merrix is the field officer of the national council of the Episcopal Church attached to this province. He will be in charge of all educational matters in connection with the triennial conference of the Episcopal Church, which will take place in San Francisco next year. Mr. Merrix was for many years the loved rector of St. Paul's Church, Oakland.

The luncheon and talk are open to men as well as women, and to any member of the public who wishes to attend. Reservations for the luncheon should be secured by telephoning to Mrs. R. Ellis Roberts, Carmel 2235-J, before Tuesday, September 14. Charge for the luncheon is 85 cents.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

"Substance" is the subject of the Christian Science Lesson-Sermon for Sunday, September 12, with the Golden Text taken from Romans: "We are saved by hope: but hope that is seen is not hope: for what a man seeth, why doth he yet hope for? But if we hope for that we see not, then do we with patience wait for it" (8:24, 25).

The following citations are included in the sermon:

Proverbs: "Doth not wisdom cry? And understanding put forth her voice? Unto you, O men, I call; and my voice is to the sons of man. That I may cause those that love me to inherit substance; and I will fill their treasures" (8:1, 4, 21).

"Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The substance, Life, intelligence, Truth, and Love, which constitute Deity, are reflected by His creation; and when we subordinate the false testimony of the corporeal senses to the facts of Science, we shall see this true likeness and reflection everywhere" (p. 516).

Favorite Jumper Lined Up For Co. Fair Horse Show

Some of the most colorful and outstanding horses on the Pacific Coast are included among entries which have been received to date by the Monterey County Fair Horse Show, September 23-26, according to Col. F. W. Koester, Ret., horse show manager.

Probably the most interesting equine individual which patrons of the show will have an opportunity to see is the horse Billy Whiskers, a jumper who originated on an obscure ranch in Nevada, was shipped to California among some horses destined for slaughter, and by a pure quirk of fate was purchased out of the slaughter lot and then had a varied career as a work horse, a member of a riding academy, and finally was converted into a jumper. Though an "ugly duckling," Billy Whiskers has won a place in the hearts of Pacific Coast jumping fans by his phenomenal performances. He is now owned by Barbara Worth of Sacramento, who as usual will bring her large and outstanding stable of hunters and jumpers and polo ponies to the Monterey show.

There are still some choice boxes available for the show, and those wishing to reserve them may do so by phoning the County Fair Grounds in Monterey.

Council Proposes Benefit Show For Forest Theatre

as part of the same program.

Attorney Stanley Pedder, representing a group of local citizens who entered complaints against the M. J. Murphy maintenance yard at Monte Verde and Ninth last month, reported to the council that a "cordial and satisfactory agreement" has been reached between property owners and the construction company. Trucks and heavy equipment will be moved to other company locations as soon as facilities can be made available, Pedder said.

"This problem has worked out pretty well," Mayor Godwin told the audience Wednesday night. "By means of a friendly and informal conference between M. J. Murphy, Mr. Pedder, City Attorney Hudson and myself, we've succeeded in ironing out a potentially unpleasant situation so that all parties concerned are apparently completely satisfied."

Editorials...

orchestra rehearsal of the season, scheduled for the evening of September 13 at Carmel High School, are being completed, Clifford Anderson, co-conductor of the symphony, has again issued an appeal for additional musicians, especially in the following departments: violin, viola, cello, double bass, French horn, percussion, and flute. Selection of scores for the first concert of the season awaits organization of the orchestra, and Mr. Anderson hopes that the augmenting of the above departments will mean the orchestra will be able to essay a rich and varied program for the year.

Sincerely yours,
Muriel Simpson.

Art At County Fair

Hoyland Bettinger, chairman of the committee on arrangements, announces that final date for receiving pictures for the art exhibition at the Monterey County Fair will be September 20. The pictures may be left at the Carmel Art Gallery, Oliver's Art Store, or the Fine Arts Building at the Fair Grounds. It has been decided this year not to award a popular prize as has been done in the past. All entries will be judged by a jury composed of Armin Hansen, chairman, Richard Lofton, Mrs. Gene McComas, and Lee Randolph. First, second, third, and fourth prize ribbons will be awarded.

AWVS Activities

Busy with its plans to assist at the September 13 golf tournament, the AWVS, under the leadership of Mrs. Louis Lengfeld, has been holding meetings and receiving golf entrants. Any financial returns will be used to further the AWVS war veterans program. On September 8, Mrs. Lengfeld held an informal afternoon meeting at her home to welcome advance golfers. On that day, also, the AWVS opened an information center in the caddy house by the first tee at the Pebble Beach golf course; a listing of daily events will be posted there and at the Pine Inn.

Other events in connection with AWVS work with the golf tournament will be a September 11 cocktail party at Mrs. Lengfeld's Pebble Beach home to entertain women's committee members of the U. S. G. A., contestants and AWVS members; on Sunday, September 12, a sightseeing tour has been arranged which will include a visit to the Seven Arts gallery to see the paraplegic veterans' art exhibit which has been sponsored by the AWVS.

Monday, September 13, dates the qualifying round, and Saturday, September 18, will see the final rounds of the tournament and the presentation of prizes. The next regular AWVS meeting will take place on October 8.

AUDUBON FIELD TRIP CANCELLED

Because of the uncertain gas situation, the Audubon Society, scheduled for a field trip to Moss Landing Sunday, has postponed the trip until further notice.

EVEN THE DOGS LIKE IT HERE

Del Monte Kennel Club reports the entries closed for their dog show Sunday, September 19, with approximately 700 entries, all kinds, all colors, all sizes. Over 100 cockers, 50 boxers, 40 collies, etc., etc., and 70 entered in obedience classes.

Victor Harber Is First To Receive The Bardarson Scholarship

Victor Harber of Carmel has been granted a scholarship by the O. W. Bardarson Scholarship Fund, at a meeting held last week; this was announced today by Michael Balazs, chairman of the board of trustees.

Victor Harber is the first student to receive a scholarship from this fund, which was set up as a memorial to O. W. Bardarson, the late district superintendent of Carmel Unified School District. Victor is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd E. Harber of Carmel and will attend California State Polytechnic College at San Luis Obispo this fall.
